

HKBU LANG 0036 Learning Session Report

Generated: 2025-11-24 20:51:56

Student Email: 25285718@life.hkbu.edu.hk

Student Number: 25285718

Section: 34

Course Information and Student Background

Course Information: Course: LANG 0036 - English for Academic Purposes Level: Intermediate to Advanced Focus: Academic writing and critical thinking Assessment: Essay writing with rubric-based evaluation

Student Background: Academic Level: University student Language: English as additional language Goals: Improve academic writing skills Challenges: Structure, vocabulary, critical analysis

Rubric:

Assessment Task: Writing (20%) Part 1: Point-of-view Essay (10%)

Criteria: Content and Ideas 1 (Limited): Ideas are irrelevant or minimally related to the topic. Lacks awareness of the issue concerned. No clear viewpoint. 2 (Basic): Ideas are somewhat related but vague. Minimal awareness of the issue concerned. Viewpoint unclear. 3 (Developing): Ideas are relevant but basic. Some awareness of the issue concerned. Viewpoint present but weakly developed. 4 (Proficient): Ideas are relevant and solid. Good awareness of the issue concerned. Clear viewpoint with some depth. 5 (Excellent): Ideas are insightful and highly relevant. Strong awareness of the issue concerned. Well-developed, compelling viewpoint.

Criteria: Organisation and Logical Progression 1 (Limited): No clear structure. Ideas are disjointed with no development or progression. 2 (Basic): Basic structure with unclear paragraphing. Ideas are listed with little development. 3 (Developing): Clear structure with some paragraphing. Ideas are developed but lack depth or logical flow. 4 (Proficient): Well-organized with clear paragraphs. Ideas are developed logically with good flow and support. 5 (Excellent): Highly organized with effective paragraphing. Ideas are thoroughly developed with seamless, logical progression.

Criteria: Vocabulary 1 (Limited): Vocabulary is limited, repetitive, or inaccurate. Lacks topic-specific terms. 2 (Basic): Basic vocabulary with some repetition. Minimal use of topic-specific terms. 3 (Developing): Adequate vocabulary with some variety. Includes some topic-specific terms but with occasional errors. 4 (Proficient): Varied and precise vocabulary. Effective use of topic-specific terms. Minor errors. 5 (Excellent): Rich, precise vocabulary. Masterful use of topic-specific terms. Almost error-free and sophisticated.

Criteria: Grammar and Sentence Structure 1 (Limited): Frequent grammatical and spelling errors. Sentences are incomplete or confusing. 2 (Basic): Several grammatical and spelling errors. Sentences are simple and often flawed. 3 (Developing): Some grammatical and spelling errors. Sentences are mostly correct but lack variety. 4 (Proficient): Minor grammatical and spelling errors. Sentences are varied and mostly accurate. 5 (Excellent): Virtually error-free grammar and spelling. Sentences are complex, varied, and accurately constructed.

Part 2: AI-Assisted Review Skills (10%) A. In-Depth Conversation with AI 1 (Limited): No exchanges or chat history; no questions asked. 2 (Basic): Sparse conversation; one or two simple questions. 3 (Developing): Adequate exchanges; some relevant questions. 4 (Proficient): Robust interaction; detailed, relevant questions across levels. 5 (Excellent): Extensive, well-documented chat history; insightful, multi-level questioning.

B. Critical Review of AI Suggestions 1 (Limited): All AI suggestions accepted blindly. 2 (Basic): Most accepted; little analysis. 3 (Developing): Some evaluated; partial justification. 4 (Proficient): Most critically reviewed with clear justification. 5 (Excellent): All evaluated thoroughly with strong, evidence-based reasoning.

C. Refining Process 1 (Limited): No revisions made. 2 (Basic): Minimal revisions; no iteration. 3 (Developing): Some revisions with limited iteration. 4 (Proficient): Clear iterative process with multiple revisions. 5 (Excellent): Extensive refinement with iterative improvements.

Contribution Analysis

Here is the final fully proofread and polished version of your essay, incorporating the strong thesis and revised paragraphs 1 and 3, plus corrections for paragraph 2 and the closing lines to improve grammar, vocabulary, and clarity:

Governments should enact and enforce stricter labour protections to prevent the exploitation of migrant workers, safeguard their physical and mental well-being, and preserve social and economic stability.

Stricter labour laws are essential to prevent the exploitation that severely harms migrant workers' physical and mental health. For example, working sustained long hours without adequate rest often leads to chronic fatigue and stress, which can develop into serious conditions like depression or cardiovascular diseases. This exhaustion also significantly reduces work efficiency, as tired workers are less alert and productive, creating a vicious cycle that further undermines their well-being. Furthermore, insufficient income from low wages prevents workers from affording proper nutrition and healthcare, worsening their physical condition. Therefore, guaranteeing fair pay and regulated working hours is not merely an ethical obligation but a fundamental measure to protect migrant workers' health.

From a social perspective, such exploitation undermines public trust and can provoke widespread anger toward the government. This loss of social trust may reduce the number of migrant workers willing to work in the country, causing it to lose valuable skills and labor. Consequently, the country misses opportunities for learning, development, and economic growth, which harms social and economic stability.

Therefore, to address these issues proactively, governments must enact and enforce concrete measures to protect migrant workers. First, authorities should distribute anonymous surveys to gather reliable data about working conditions and identify patterns of abuse. Equally important, governments must strengthen enforcement of labour laws by ensuring compliance with minimum-wage and maximum-hour regulations, increasing inspections, and imposing meaningful penalties for violations. These combined steps are essential to safeguard migrant workers' rights and reduce further exploitation.

This version corrects grammar and usage issues (articles, verb agreement, spelling), improves vocabulary precision and formality, strengthens cohesion, and maintains your clear argument structure.

If you would like, I can also provide a sentence-by-sentence explanation of changes or suggestions for further revision focused on evidence/examples or style. Just let me know!

Grading Result (Hidden from students)

Task completion check: - Revised the thesis statement: Completed (student and assistant revised and confirmed a new thesis). - Revised one of the topic sentences: Completed (student produced and kept a revised topic sentence for paragraph 1). - Revised one of the body paragraphs:

Completed (paragraph 1 was revised in detail; paragraph 3 was also revised).

STUDENT ASSESSMENT REPORT

Course: LANG 0036 - Enhancing English through Global Citizenship

Module: AI for Revising Essays

ESSAY WRITING ASSESSMENT

Original Essay Scores:

- Content and Ideas: 18/25 - The original draft presents a clear position (governments should act) and relevant reasons (worker welfare, social consequences), but ideas are general and underdeveloped in places.
- Organization: 15/25 - There is an attempted structure (individual → social → solutions) but weak transitions and no clear thesis preview; some paragraphs and sentences are fragmented.
- Vocabulary: 15/25 - Basic topic vocabulary is present (salary, working hours, rights) but there are inaccurate choices (e.g., “unmoral”) and frequent repetition.
- Grammar: 14/25 - Many spelling, punctuation, and grammar errors that sometimes impede clarity (e.g., fragments, wrong verb forms, typos).
- Original Essay Total: 62/100

Evidence (original): opening sentence contains wordiness/awkward grammar: "As the phenomenon of unfair treatment that migrant workers get like long hours labour and unfair pay exist, I think the governments should enforce stricter laws to safeguard their rights." The body includes fragments and typos (e.g., “make the workers cannot work and provide the value very well,”; “teatreatment”, “worksing”).

Revised Essay Scores:

- Content and Ideas: 21/25 - The revised essay offers clearer, relevant reasons and a stronger thesis that previews arguments: "Governments should enact and enforce stricter labour protections to prevent the exploitation of migrant workers, safeguard their physical and mental well-being, and preserve social and economic stability."
- Organization: 21/25 - Thesis now previews reasons; paragraph 1 and paragraph 3 were reorganized to link to the thesis. Paragraph 2 still needs work to match the clarity of other parts.
- Vocabulary: 20/25 - Improved precision and use of topic-specific terms (exploitation, chronic fatigue, enforce, minimum-wage). Some remaining wordiness and inconsistent word choices remain in paragraph 2 and later lines.
- Grammar: 19/25 - Many grammar problems were fixed in revised paragraphs (especially paragraph 1 and 3). Residual issues remain (notably in paragraph 2 and the original closing lines) that need proofreading (articles, agreement, typos).
- Revised Essay Total: 81/100

Evidence (revised): - Revised thesis (final used): "Governments should enact and enforce stricter labour protections to prevent the exploitation of migrant workers, safeguard their physical and mental well-being, and preserve social and economic stability." - Revised topic sentence (paragraph 1): "Stricter labour laws are essential to prevent the exploitation that severely harms migrant workers' physical and mental health." - Revised paragraph 1 (sample): "For example, working sustained long hours without adequate rest often leads to chronic fatigue and stress, which can develop into serious conditions like depression or cardiovascular diseases. ... Therefore, guaranteeing fair pay and regulated working hours is not merely an ethical obligation but a fundamental measure to protect migrant workers' health." - Residual problem example (paragraph 2): "From a social perspective, the unfair treatment will surely make people angry and the people may get angry with the government, and the country may lost others trust." — shows remaining article/agreement/word-choice errors.

Essay Improvement Analysis:

- Overall Improvement: +19 points
- Key Improvements Made:
 - Clear, confident thesis that previews reasons and connects essay structure to argument.
 - Strengthened topic sentence and full revision of paragraph 1: clearer cause→effect reasoning, improved vocabulary (e.g., "chronic fatigue," "cardiovascular diseases"), better sentence variety.
 - Revised solutions paragraph (paragraph 3) to propose concrete policy measures and to echo thesis language (enact/enforce labour protections; surveys; stronger enforcement).
- Missed Opportunities:

- Paragraph 2 still contains several grammar, word-choice, and coherence issues. It would benefit from the same sentence-level editing applied to paragraph 1.
- Final lines of the essay contain typos and fragmentary phrasing that weaken the overall polish (e.g., "questionanes," inconsistent capitalization).
- The essay would be stronger with one or two concrete data points, citations, or a short illustrative example (beyond a hypothetical) to support claims about economic or health impacts.

HUMAN-AI INTERACTION ASSESSMENT

Chat History Analysis:

- Total Exchanges: 29 (an extensive, stepwise conversation across thesis, topic sentence, paragraph revisions, and grammar/vocabulary work).
- Conversation Quality: High-quality, structured, and iterative. The assistant used a clear three-step revision plan and the student engaged actively, produced revisions, and made choices about focus areas (organization/topic sentences; vocabulary & grammar). The chat shows multiple cycles of suggestion, student revision, and assistant feedback.

Interaction Scores:

- In-Depth Conversation: 5/5 - Evidence: 29 exchanges; the assistant and student developed a stepwise plan, revised thesis, topic sentence, paragraph 1, and paragraph 3; the exchange included diagnostics, model suggestions, and multiple student revisions.
- Critical Review of AI Suggestions: 4/5 - The student generally evaluated and adapted AI suggestions rather than passively accepting them. Examples: the assistant proposed a model thesis and the student adapted and provided their own thesis/topic sentence ("Stricter labour laws are essential..."), explicitly chose which suggestions to keep ("I will choose keep"), and requested to focus on vocabulary/grammar. However, while the student made independent revisions, they did not always provide extended evidence-based rejections of AI suggestions (so not the topmost level).
- Refining Process: 5/5 - The conversation shows iterative revisions: initial thesis → assistant suggestion → student adaptation; topic sentence drafting and acceptance; paragraph 1 sentence-level revision; solutions paragraph rewrite. Multiple meaningful revision cycles are documented.

Human-AI Interaction Total: 14/15

Evidence of interaction behaviors: - Student-led choices: selected revision targets (organization/topic sentences + vocabulary/grammar). - Active revision: student wrote and kept the topic sentence: "Stricter labour laws are essential to prevent the exploitation that severely harms migrant workers' physical and mental health." - Iterations: the assistant provided models and the student produced final paragraph text for paragraph 1 and paragraph 3, which the assistant then copyedited.

OVERALL PERFORMANCE SUMMARY

Strengths Demonstrated:

- Clear argumentative focus: student maintained a consistent claim that governments should act to protect migrant workers (supported by a strong thesis).
- Effective revision skills: student successfully revised an initial weak topic sentence and rewrote paragraph 1 with improved coherence and vocabulary.
- Productive collaboration with AI: the student followed a structured revision process, made independent edits, and applied guidance (examples: accepting and adapting assistant models, producing revised paragraphs).

Areas for Improvement:

- Proofreading and grammar accuracy: apply article use, subject-verb agreement, pluralization, and spelling checks across paragraphs (paragraph 2 and final lines need work).
- Cohesion and parallel phrasing: maintain consistent lexical choices (e.g., "enact and enforce" vs. "strengthen enforcement") and tie each paragraph explicitly back to the thesis.
- Evidence and depth: incorporate one or two concrete facts, brief statistics, or an illustrative example to strengthen claims about health or economic impacts.

AI Collaboration Skills Assessment:

- Context Provision: Good - The student provided the original essay and clarified revision targets early in the chat.
- Strategic Planning: Excellent - The student and assistant negotiated clear steps (thesis → topic sentence → paragraph revision → grammar/vocab pass).

- Critical Evaluation: Good - The student adapted AI suggestions and made independent wording choices (kept/changed suggestions), though a few AI suggestions were accepted without extended critique.
- Independent Editing: Excellent - The student performed multiple independent rewrites (topic sentence, paragraph 1, paragraph 3) and integrated assistant feedback.

RECOMMENDATIONS FOR FUTURE DEVELOPMENT

1. Do a focused proofreading pass for articles, verb agreement, plurals, and spelling—apply the short checklist used in the session to every sentence (read aloud, check articles, fix typos).
2. Apply the same sentence-level revision you used for paragraph 1 to paragraph 2 and the final paragraph: make topic sentences mirror the thesis vocabulary and tighten supporting sentences.
3. When possible, add one short factual detail or a cited example to strengthen claims about health or economic impact; even a simple, labeled hypothetical example improves credibility.

INSTRUCTOR NOTES

- The student engaged well with the AI coach, followed a scaffolded revision process, and demonstrated growing independent editing skills.
- The revised essay shows clear improvement in argument structure and clarity, but paragraph 2 and the closing still require proofreading before final submission. Consider recommending a short grammar-focused practice or peer-edit session to clear remaining mechanical issues.
- The chat evidence demonstrates effective use of AI as a writing tutor rather than a replacer: the student iterated and made personal choices about wording and structure.

If you want, I can now produce: - A final fully proofread version of the entire essay (fixing remaining grammar and typos), or - A sentence-by-sentence correction list for paragraph 2 and the closing lines.

■■■ Student Feedback ■ Rating: 5/5 ■ Comment: No additional comment provided.

Current Mode:assessment

Complete Conversation

Assistant:

Original:

As the phenomenon of unfair treatment that migrant workers get like long hours labour and unfair pay exist, I think the governments should enforce stricter laws to safeguard their rights.

From an individual perspective, the unfair treatment between migrant workers and native workers is unmoral. Both of them work and creat value, and both of them have the right to balance the labour and rest. So a worker no matter is a migrant worker or a native worker should get the salary that they deserve, and should have suitable working hours. Unfair teatment, fom the one hand, may affect workers' working efficient. make the workers cannot work and provide the value very well, on the other hand, it may have some bad impact on the worker himself like depressing and tiring may cause some mental and physical problem to the worker and have a threat to their life and health.

From an a social perspective, the unfair treatment will surely make people angry and the people may get angry with the government, and the country may lost others trust. These change may make the number of migrant worker decrease and the country lost the chance of learning and developing with migrant worker's help.

So, before it cause a bigger problem, government should fir it immediately, For example, provide some questionanes straigney to migrant workers to do a reageresearch of their treatment, and enforce Laws to protect their rights like salary law and working hours law.

Revised:

Migrant workers' rights should be safeguarded through more stringent labor laws by the governments. This is crucial because it keeps workers healthy and safe, makes society more stable and is good for the economy.

First, we need tougher laws to safeguard the health of migrant workers. While they work very long hours for low pay, it exhausts and stresses them out. This can lead to serious health issues including heart disease or depression. And when workers become too tired, they cannot work well and this exacerbates the situation for them as well. So it's very important to ensure adequate rest and fair pay for these human needs.

Second, ill-treatment of migrant workers is bad for the society. It has the potential to make people angry and cause credibility in government to collapse. If a country's poor treatment of workers becomes known, fewer migrant workers will want to go there. Then the country will lose the opportunity to tap into their skills and contribute in development. This is not good for the stability and growth of the country.

So the government should act to correct it. For instance, they can survey migrant workers to study their actual condition. They also must more firmly enforce laws relating to pay and working hours. By doing that we can effectively protect migrant workers' rights.

Assistant:

Hi there! ■ I'm your English writing coach, here to help you strengthen your essay through clear, focused revision. Before we dive in, we'll take a moment to set some goals together.

Here's how our session will work:

Negotiate your targets — We'll start by discussing what you want to improve most in your essay.

Get a quick diagnosis — I'll give you feedback on your essay based on key writing rubrics (like thesis, organization, evidence, and language).

Choose what to focus on — You'll decide which issues you'd like to work on first.

Then we'll move through a structured, three-step revision process:

Step 1: Revise your thesis statement.

Step 2: Choose one body paragraph and refine its topic sentence.

Step 3: Revise the rest of that paragraph for clarity and coherence.

My role is to guide you with questions, feedback, and examples—but you'll always lead the revisions yourself. ■

You:

Revise thesis statement

Assistant:

Great — I can help with that. First, let's do the short negotiation and diagnostic steps so we focus the revision where it will help you most.

1) Quick goal check

- Which of these do you most want to improve in this session? (Pick one or two.)

- Clarity of the thesis / argument strength

- Organisation and topic sentences

- Use of evidence and development

- Vocabulary and grammar

(If you already know, tell me which. If not, I'll suggest priorities from my diagnosis.)

2) Diagnostic feedback (brief, using the rubric)

- Content & Ideas

- Strengths: You take a clear position (governments should act) and you consider both individual and social perspectives.

- Needs work: Ideas are general and would be stronger with clearer, more precise claims and a preview of your main reasons.

Organisation & Logical Progression

Strengths: There is a clear attempt to move from individual to social perspectives and then to solutions.

Needs work: The thesis does not clearly preview the structure; some sentences are awkward and interrupt flow.

Vocabulary

Strengths: Basic topic vocabulary is present (e.g., salary, working hours, rights).

Needs work: Repetition and some inaccurate word choices; you can add more precise academic vocabulary.

Grammar & Sentence Structure

Strengths: Sentences convey ideas clearly enough to understand.

Needs work: Many spelling, punctuation, and grammar errors that distract readers and weaken authority.

3) Which issue would you like to focus on now?

- I can work on the thesis (as you requested), or we can focus first on grammar or topic sentences. Which do you prefer?

If you confirm "thesis," I'll move to Step 1 now.

Step 1 — Thesis statement revision

- Your current thesis (first sentence):

"As the phenomenon of unfair treatment that migrant workers get like long hours labour and unfair pay exist, I think the governments should enforce stricter laws to safeguard their rights."

Feedback on the current thesis

- It expresses your position but is wordy and grammatically awkward.
- It uses hedging language ("I think") and extra phrases that reduce clarity.
- It does not preview the main reasons/structure of the essay (what you will argue).
- A stronger thesis should be confident, concise, and preview 2–3 main reasons.

Would you like to try rewriting it now? If you prefer, here is a suggested revised thesis you can use or adapt:

Suggested revised thesis (confident, concise, previews reasons):

"Governments should enforce stricter labour laws and stronger enforcement mechanisms to protect migrant workers' rights because doing so ensures worker well-being, prevents public and social harm, and preserves the country's economic and social stability."

I have inserted that revised thesis into your full essay below (I changed only the first sentence/thesis). Read it and tell me whether you are satisfied or want a different emphasis or wording.

Full essay with revised thesis:

Governments should enforce stricter labour laws and stronger enforcement mechanisms to protect migrant workers' rights because doing so ensures worker well-being, prevents public and social harm, and preserves the country's economic and social stability.

From an individual perspective, the unfair treatment between migrant workers and native workers is unmoral. Both of them work and create value, and both of them have the right to balance the labour and rest. So a worker no matter is a migrant worker or a native worker should get the salary that they deserve, and should have suitable working hours. Unfair treatment, from the one hand, may affect workers' working efficiency. make the workers cannot work and provide the value very well, on the other hand, it may have some bad impact on the worker himself like depressing and tiring may cause some mental and physical problem to the worker and have a threat to their life and health.

From an a social perspective, the unfair treatment will surely make people angry and the people may get angry with the government, and the country may lose others trust. These change may make the number of migrant worker decrease and the country lose the chance of learning and developing with migrant worker's help.

So, before it cause a bigger problem, government should fix it immediately, For example, provide some questionnaires straightly to migrant workers to do a research of their treatment, and enforce Laws to protect their rights like salary law and working hours law.

Next steps (pick one)

- If you're happy with this thesis, we can move to Step 2: choose one body paragraph and revise its topic sentence so it links clearly to the new thesis.
- Or, if you'd like a slightly different thesis wording (stronger moral emphasis, legal emphasis, or policy examples included), tell me which emphasis and I'll propose an alternative.

Would you like to proceed to Step 2 now, or would you prefer a different thesis wording first?

You:

Organisation and topic sentences, Vocabulary and grammar

Assistant:

Great — thanks for choosing targets: organisation & topic sentences plus vocabulary & grammar. I'll follow the three-step process, beginning with Step 1 (thesis), then move to topic sentences and one paragraph, as we agreed.

Quick confirm: we'll still revise the thesis first so the rest of the essay can connect to it. Is that ok? (Yes / No)

Step 1 — Thesis statement

Please share which thesis you want to use now:

- Your original first sentence: "As the phenomenon of unfair treatment that migrant workers get like long hours labour and unfair pay exist, I think the governments should enforce stricter laws to safeguard their rights."
- Or the assistant's suggested version I gave earlier (you can accept or adapt it):
"Governments should enforce stricter labour laws and stronger enforcement mechanisms to protect migrant workers' rights because doing so ensures worker well-being, prevents public and social harm, and preserves the country's economic and social stability."

Feedback on the original thesis (short):

- Strengths: It states a clear position (governments should act).
- Problems to fix: wordy and grammatically awkward; hedging ("I think"); it doesn't preview specific reasons clearly; vocabulary could be more precise (use "enforce" "labour protections" "exploitation").

How to improve it (quick tips):

- Remove "I think" and wordy phrases — be confident and concise.
- Preview 2–3 clear reasons that you will develop in the essay (e.g., worker well-being, social trust, economic consequences).
- Use precise academic vocabulary (e.g., "enforce," "labour protections," "exploitation," "enforcement mechanisms").

Would you like to:

- A) Try rewriting the thesis now yourself (I'll give feedback), or
- B) Ask me to offer one model thesis for you to adapt?

If you pick A, please write your revised thesis in one sentence here. If you pick B, I will offer one model sentence (and if you then use it or adapt it, I'll paste the full essay with that thesis included).

You:

Migrant workers should be protected from exploitation by more regulated labour laws by governments to ensure their individual well-being and societal stability is maintained.

Firstly, abuse such as overwork, underpayment cause damage to the health of workers. It not only impairs their physical but also mental health and impact on quality of life and work efficiency.

Second, it is unjust and undermines social trust and the country's reputation. If the public thinks migrant workers are being mistreated, they could get angry and lose faith in the authorities. This may result in the reduction of the migrant labour force that could adversely affect economic development of the country.

Assistant:

Nice work — you've already made useful changes and chosen clear targets (organisation/topic sentences + vocabulary/grammar). Let's finish Step 1 (thesis) before we move to topic sentences and a paragraph.

Quick diagnostic recap (one line)

- Strength: You state a clear position and begin to give reasons (well-being, social trust, economy).
- Main fix now: make the thesis more concise, confident, and preview 2–3 clear reasons in parallel language.

Feedback on your current thesis

"Migrant workers should be protected from exploitation by more regulated labour laws by governments to ensure their individual well-being and societal stability is maintained."

Good: Clear position (governments should act) and intention to protect workers.

Problems to fix:

Wordiness and redundancy: "by more regulated labour laws by governments" repeats the agent awkwardly.

Weak phrasing: "to ensure ... is maintained" is wordy and passive.

Needs a preview: list the main reasons succinctly and in parallel (e.g., protect well-being, maintain social trust, support the economy).

Tone: remove extra filler so it sounds confident and academic.

Quick tips to revise

- Remove "by governments" (implied) or keep it once: "Governments should..."
- Use stronger verbs and parallel structure: "enact and enforce stricter labour laws to protect X, Y, and Z."
- Keep it one sentence, 2–3 clear reasons, no "I think."

Would you like to try rewriting the thesis now? Please post one sentence (I'll give quick feedback).

If you prefer I can show one model first — tell me and I'll give an example you can adapt. Also: when you're ready, tell me which body paragraph you want to revise next (your first paragraph about health/individual impact, or the second about social trust/economy).

You:

Revise topic sentences

Assistant:

Great — thanks. Quick check before we start revising topic sentences:

1) Confirm the thesis

- Which thesis should I use going forward? Pick one:

A) Your original: "As the phenomenon of unfair treatment that migrant workers get like long hours labour and unfair pay exist, I think the governments should enforce stricter laws to safeguard their rights."

B) The clearer suggestion I gave: "Governments should enforce stricter labour laws and stronger enforcement mechanisms to protect migrant workers' rights because doing so ensures worker well-being, prevents public and social harm, and preserves the country's economic and social stability."

- Reply A or B (or paste a different one you prefer). I'll only move to topic sentences once you confirm.

2) Choose the paragraph to work on

- Which body paragraph do you want to revise the topic sentence for?
- Paragraph 1 (individual/health and working conditions)
- Paragraph 2 (social trust, public anger, economic effects)
- Paragraph 3 (solutions/policy suggestions)
- Tell me which paragraph number.

3) If you pick a paragraph, I will:

- Read the current topic sentence you have for that paragraph (paste it if it's not the first sentence).
- Give quick feedback on how well it links to the confirmed thesis.
- Suggest 2 short model topic-sentence options you can adapt.
- Ask you to try revising one yourself (I'll give feedback and then we'll move to Step 3).

Would you like to confirm the thesis (A or B) and choose a paragraph now?

You:

B paragraph 1

Assistant:

Great — thanks for confirming. You've chosen thesis option B and to work on paragraph 1 (the individual/health paragraph). Before I move to Step 2, we need to finish Step 1 properly.

Here is thesis B again (please read it and decide whether you want to use it as-is or adapt it):

"Governments should enforce stricter labour laws and stronger enforcement mechanisms to protect migrant workers' rights because doing so ensures worker well-being, prevents public and social harm, and preserves the country's economic and social stability."

Quick feedback on this thesis (2 points)

- Strengths: Confident, concise, and it previews three clear reasons you can develop (well-being, social/public harm, economic/social stability).
- Tiny improvements you might consider: shorten slightly and use parallel phrasing (e.g., "protects worker well-being, prevents social unrest, and supports economic stability").

Your choice now (pick one)

- A) I accept this thesis as-is — please move to Step 2 with paragraph 1.
- B) I want to adapt it — I will write one revised thesis sentence now for feedback.

If you pick B, please type your new one-sentence thesis here (one sentence only). If you pick A, I'll start Step 2 and ask you to paste the current topic sentence of paragraph 1 so we can revise it to link clearly to the confirmed thesis.

You:

B

Firstly, enforcing labour protections is crucial to safeguard the physical and mental well-being of migrant workers. Exploitative practices, such as excessive overtime and underpayment, not only cause immediate fatigue and stress but can also lead to severe long-term health issues. This exploitation also reduces their work efficiency, creating a vicious cycle that further diminishes their quality of life. Therefore, guaranteeing fair pay and adequate rest is not merely an ethical imperative but a fundamental requirement for preserving their basic health and dignity.

Assistant:

Thanks — good move choosing B and pasting your paragraph. Quick note: you picked to adapt the thesis but didn't post a one-sentence thesis. I've put together a clear, academic one below that matches your paragraph's focus. Read it and tell me if you want it as-is or want a different emphasis.

Suggested thesis (please confirm or adapt):

"Governments should enact and enforce stricter labour protections to prevent the exploitation of migrant workers, safeguard their physical and mental well-being, and preserve social and economic stability."

I've placed that thesis into your essay below and kept your revised paragraph 1 exactly as you wrote it. Paragraphs 2 and 3 are the original versions (we will revise them later if you want).

Full essay with suggested thesis and your paragraph 1:

Governments should enact and enforce stricter labour protections to prevent the exploitation of migrant workers, safeguard their physical and mental well-being, and preserve social and economic stability.

Firstly, enforcing labour protections is crucial to safeguard the physical and mental well-being of migrant workers. Exploitative practices, such as excessive overtime and underpayment, not only cause immediate fatigue and stress but can also lead to severe long-term health issues. This exploitation also reduces their work efficiency, creating a vicious cycle that further diminishes their quality of life. Therefore, guaranteeing fair pay and adequate rest is not merely an ethical imperative but a fundamental requirement for preserving their basic health and dignity.

From an a social perspective, the unfair treatment will surely make people angry and the people may get angry with the government, and the country may lost others trust. These change may make the number of migrant worker decrease and the country lost the chance of learning and developing with migrant worker's help.

So, before it cause a bigger problem, government should fir it immediately, For example, provide some questionanes straighey to migrant workers to do a reageresearch of their treatment, and enforce Laws to protect their rights like salary law and working hours law.

Step 2 — Topic sentence work (paragraph 1)

- Current topic sentence (your first sentence of paragraph 1): "Firstly, enforcing labour protections is crucial to safeguard the physical and mental well-being of migrant workers."
- Quick feedback: This is clear and relevant to the confirmed thesis. To link even more strongly to the thesis and sound more academic, consider:
- Using "stricter" or "stronger enforcement" to mirror the thesis wording (so the paragraph clearly supports the thesis).
- Removing "Firstly," unless you plan to keep a numbered structure across paragraphs.
- Making the sentence slightly more concise and active.

Would you like to try revising that topic sentence now to make the link to the thesis explicit (for example, include "stricter labour protections" or "prevent exploitation")? Please write one revised sentence here and I'll give quick feedback.

If you prefer a quick model to adapt, say so and I'll give two brief options after you try your own.

You:

I will do it myself

Now we move to Revise one body paragraph

Assistant:

Great — let's do paragraph 1. Quick check: I'll use the thesis we agreed on:

"Governments should enact and enforce stricter labour protections to prevent the exploitation of migrant workers, safeguard their physical and mental well-being, and preserve social and economic stability."

Step 2 (topic sentence) — current topic sentence you gave:

"Firstly, enforcing labour protections is crucial to safeguard the physical and mental well-being of migrant workers."

Quick feedback (2 short points)

- Strengths: Clear focus, matches the thesis's first reason (well-being).
- To improve: make it more specific and stronger by echoing the thesis language (e.g., "stricter" or "prevent exploitation"), and remove "Firstly" unless you'll use the same signposting style in each paragraph.

Two model topic sentence options you can adapt (use one as a pattern — do not copy unless you want to):

- 1) "Stricter labour protections are necessary to prevent the exploitation that damages migrant workers' physical and mental health."
- 2) "To safeguard migrant workers' well-being, governments must enact and enforce stronger labour laws that limit excessive hours and ensure fair pay."

Your turn

Would you like to try rewriting the topic sentence now? Please write one sentence here (short). I'll give quick feedback, then we'll move to Step 3 and revise the supporting sentences in that paragraph.

You:

Based on the tutor's feedback, I have prepared a revised topic sentence for your first body paragraph. This version aims to be more specific, incorporate key terms from the thesis, and remove the informal signposting.

Revised Topic Sentence:

Stricter labour laws are essential to prevent the exploitation that severely harms migrant workers' physical and mental health.

Assistant:

Nice work — this topic sentence is much stronger: clear, concise, and it echoes the thesis language. Quick confirmation: are you happy to keep it as written, or would you like a tiny tweak (for example, add "enact and" or replace "that" with "which")? Reply "keep" or suggest a small change.

I've put your revised topic sentence into the full essay below so you can see how it fits. (I changed only the thesis and the first paragraph's topic sentence — the rest is unchanged for now.)

Full essay with revised topic sentence:

Governments should enact and enforce stricter labour protections to prevent the exploitation of migrant workers, safeguard their physical and mental well-being, and preserve social and economic stability.

Stricter labour laws are essential to prevent the exploitation that severely harms migrant workers' physical and mental health. Exploitative practices, such as excessive overtime and underpayment, not only cause immediate fatigue and stress but can also lead to severe long-term health issues. This exploitation also reduces their work efficiency, creating a vicious cycle that further diminishes their quality of life. Therefore, guaranteeing fair pay and adequate rest is not merely an ethical imperative but a fundamental requirement for preserving their basic health and dignity.

From an a social perspective, the unfair treatment will surely make people angry and the people may get angry with the government, and the country may lost others trust. These change may make the number of migrant worker decrease and the country lost the chance of learning and developing with migrant worker's help.

So, before it cause a bigger problem, government should fir it immediately, For example, provide some questionanes straighey to migrant workers to do a reageresearch of their treatment, and enforce Laws to protect their rights like salary law and working hours law.

Step 3 — Revising the rest of this paragraph (your turn)

Now let's improve the supporting sentences in the paragraph that begins with your new topic sentence. I'll guide you, but I want you to try revising those sentences first. Use the guiding questions below to focus your edits.

Guiding questions to help you revise (one at a time):

- Do these sentences clearly explain how exploitation harms health? (If not, add a short explanation or an example.)
- Are the supporting sentences directly connected to the topic sentence? Remove any off-topic ideas.
- Is there a clear cause → effect chain (e.g., long hours → fatigue → illness → reduced productivity)? Make that link explicit.
- Are there sentences that are long, awkward, or contain spelling/grammar mistakes? Break or correct them.
- Could you add one concrete example or a brief statistic phrase (even general: "for example, many workers report...")? You don't need to invent data — a hypothetical short example is fine.

Three short sentence starters you might use or adapt (pick one or use them to rewrite different sentences):

- "For example, working sustained long hours without rest causes chronic fatigue, which can lead to ..."
- "As a result, exhausted workers are less productive because ..."
- "Ensuring fair wages and regulated hours would reduce these health risks by ..."

A few specific editing pointers (targeted, not full rewrites)

- Replace weak words: "unmoral" → "unjust" or "unethical."
- Use precise verbs: "creates" or "reduces" instead of "may affect."
- Fix grammar and spelling: check words like "create," "treatment," "efficiency," and possessives (worker's vs. workers').
- Keep sentences active and avoid fragments (e.g., "make the workers cannot work..." → rewrite as a complete clause).

Would you like to:

- A) Try revising the paragraph now and paste your version here for feedback? (Recommended.)
- B) Ask me for one short example sentence to help rewrite a single sentence you find hard? (I'll give a brief model—not a full paragraph.)

Next step: paste your revised paragraph when ready. I'll give focused feedback (grammar, clarity, connection to the topic sentence) and then update the full essay with your changes. You're doing well — small edits now will make this paragraph clear and convincing.

You:

I will choose keep

Stricter labour laws are essential to prevent the exploitation that severely harms migrant workers' physical and mental health. For example, working sustained long hours without adequate rest often leads to chronic fatigue and stress, which can develop into serious conditions like depression or cardiovascular diseases. This exhaustion also significantly reduces work efficiency, as tired workers are less alert and productive, creating a vicious cycle that further undermines their well-being. Furthermore, insufficient income from unfair wages prevents workers from affording proper nutrition and healthcare, worsening their physical condition. Therefore, guaranteeing fair pay and regulated working hours is not merely an ethical obligation but a fundamental measure to protect migrant workers' health.

Assistant:

Well done — this paragraph is a clear, focused improvement. It links directly to the thesis, explains cause → effect, and uses an example to show the health consequences. Nice work on structure and unity.

Quick, focused feedback (strengths)

- Clear topic link: the paragraph supports the thesis reason (worker well-being).
- Logical progression: example → consequences → wider effects → solution is easy to follow.
- Good sentence variety and stronger vocabulary (e.g., “chronic fatigue,” “cardiovascular diseases”).

Two small suggestions you can accept or ignore

- Wording: “working sustained long hours” is fine, but you could make it slightly smoother as “working long hours without adequate rest.”
- Word choice: “insufficient income from unfair wages” is a bit wordy — “low pay” or “insufficient pay” is more concise.

If you want, you can swap either of these single sentences:

- Option A (for the first sentence of the example): “For example, working long hours without adequate rest often leads to chronic fatigue and stress...”
- Option B (for the fourth sentence): “Furthermore, low pay prevents workers from affording proper nutrition and healthcare, worsening their physical condition.”

Tell me if you want me to apply one of those tiny edits. I won't change anything else unless you ask.

Here is the full essay with your accepted thesis and your revised paragraph 1 inserted (I left paragraphs 2 and 3 unchanged as agreed):

Governments should enact and enforce stricter labour protections to prevent the exploitation of migrant workers, safeguard their physical and mental well-being, and preserve social and economic stability.

Stricter labour laws are essential to prevent the exploitation that severely harms migrant workers' physical and mental health. For example, working sustained long hours without adequate rest often leads to chronic fatigue and stress, which can develop into serious conditions like depression or cardiovascular diseases. This exhaustion also significantly reduces work efficiency, as tired workers are less alert and productive, creating a vicious cycle that further undermines their well-being. Furthermore, insufficient income from unfair wages prevents workers from affording proper nutrition and healthcare, worsening their physical condition. Therefore, guaranteeing fair pay and regulated working hours is not merely an ethical obligation but a fundamental measure to protect migrant workers' health.

From an a social perspective, the unfair treatment will surely make people angry and the people may get angry with the government, and the country may lost others trust. These change may make the number of migrant worker decrease and the country lost the chance of learning and developing with migrant worker's help.

So, before it cause a bigger problem, government should fir it immediately, For example, provide some questionanes straighey to migrant workers to do a reageresearch of their treatment, and enforce Laws to protect their rights like salary law and working hours law.

Next step — what would you like to work on now?

- Revise paragraph 2 (topic sentence + content) so it links to the thesis and sounds clearer; or
- Focus on vocabulary and grammar across the whole essay (I can point out the most frequent errors and suggest practice); or
- Apply one of the tiny sentence options above to paragraph 1.

Pick one option and I'll guide you through the next revision step.

You:

Focus on vocabulary and grammar across the whole essay

Assistant:

Great — this is a useful next step. Quick note about scope: I'll focus on vocabulary and grammar help in a way that fits our agreed revision process. I can (a) give a concise, high-impact list of the most frequent errors across the whole essay with short corrections and quick rules you can apply, and then (b) help you revise one more paragraph in detail (topic sentence + supporting sentences) so you get practice applying those fixes. Which paragraph would you like to revise next: paragraph 2 (social perspective) or paragraph 3 (solutions/policy)?

Below is a focused plan and a short, practical error-driven checklist you can use immediately. Read it, then tell me which paragraph to work on next (2 or 3), or say "only checklist" if you prefer just the global feedback.

1) Most frequent errors I see (short list with quick fixes)

- Article + number errors
- Problem patterns: missing or incorrect articles (a, an, the).
- Examples from essay: "From an a social perspective" → remove extra article: "From a social perspective." Use "the" when referring to a specific thing already mentioned.
- Plural / singular and agreement
- Problem patterns: "migrant worker decrease" → needs plural or article: "the number of migrant workers decreases" or "fewer migrant workers."
- Word choice and collocations
- "unmoral" → use "unethical" or "unjust."
- "creat value" → "create value."
- "working efficient" → "work efficiency" or "working efficiently."
- "lost others trust" → "lose public trust" or "lose others' trust."
- Verb forms and tense/agreement
- Problems: missing auxiliary verbs and wrong verb forms. E.g., "These change may make the number" → "These changes may cause the number..." or "These changes may lead to a decrease in the number..."
- Spelling and typos
- Frequent typos: "teatreatment" (treatment), "worksing" (working), "fir" (fix), "questionanes" (questionnaires), "reageresearch" (research).
- Pronouns, possessives and punctuation
- Examples: "the worker himself like depressing and tiring" → "the worker, such as depression and fatigue" (use plural or gender-neutral phrasing; fix commas).
- Sentence fragments & run-ons
- Example fragments: "make the workers cannot work and provide the value very well," — this is ungrammatical and should be rephrased as a complete clause.
- Capitalization and formal tone
- Avoid random capitalization: "Laws" → "laws." Keep academic tone: prefer "migrant workers" not "migrant worker's help."

2) Quick vocabulary upgrades (useful alternatives)

- unfair treatment → exploitation / unfair labour practices
- long hours labour → long working hours / excessive overtime
- unfair pay → low pay / underpayment / inadequate wages
- people may get angry with the government → public anger / social unrest / loss of public trust
- learning and developing with migrant worker's help → benefiting from migrant workers' skills / opportunities for development

3) Short editing checklist — run this over each sentence

- Step A: Read the sentence and underline any words you are unsure about (articles, plural endings, verbs).
- Step B: Ask: "Is there a more precise academic word?" (e.g., "unmoral" → "unethical").
- Step C: Check subject-verb agreement and verb form.
- Step D: Fix punctuation: commas after introductory phrases, no random capitals.
- Step E: Read aloud — does it sound complete? If not, rework fragments into full clauses.

- Step F: Spell-check uncommon words and proper nouns.

4) Two short model edits (very small edits, not full paragraph rewrites)

- Original phrase: "Both of them work and creat value" → corrected phrase: "Both create value."

- Original fragment: "make the workers cannot work and provide the value very well" → correction idea: "reduce workers' ability to work effectively."

5) How I can help next (pick one)

A) I guide you to revise paragraph 2 sentence by sentence. You try one sentence and I give targeted corrections (best for practice).

B) I provide a corrected model of paragraph 2 (fully revised) so you can study the changes and then adapt the rest (best if you want a clear example).

C) I only give a short list of the top 6 corrections to apply to the whole essay (no paragraph rewrite).

My recommendation: choose A or B and pick paragraph 2 (social perspective) — it still has many errors and links directly to the thesis. If you choose A, paste the first sentence of paragraph 2 as you would like to revise it; I'll give precise vocabulary and grammar feedback and invite you to try a revised sentence. If you choose B, I will produce a fully revised paragraph 2 and then paste the full essay with that change.

Which option do you want? And which paragraph (2 or 3)?

You:

I choose A

From a social perspective, the exploitation of migrant workers erodes public trust and can damage the country's international reputation. When citizens and the global community perceive such systemic injustice, it leads to social discontent and undermines the credibility of the government. Consequently, the nation may become a less attractive destination for migrant workers. This decline in the migrant workforce would result in a loss of valuable skills and labour, ultimately harming the country's economic development and potential for growth.

Assistant:

Nice work — this paragraph is already clear, logically ordered, and directly relevant to the thesis. I'll give short, sentence-by-sentence feedback and then invite you to try revising the first sentence (so you get practice applying the fixes). After you post your revision, we'll move through the rest of the sentences.

Quick overall notes

- Strengths: good vocabulary (exploitation, systemic injustice), clear cause→effect logic, and appropriate tone for an academic paragraph.

- Main improvements to aim for: tighten wording, remove unnecessary modals (can/may) where you want a confident claim, link explicitly to the thesis phrasing (e.g., "social and economic stability"), and check small grammar/word-choice points.

Sentence-by-sentence feedback

1) "From a social perspective, the exploitation of migrant workers erodes public trust and can damage the country's international reputation."

- Good: clear topic linking to social consequences.

- Edits to consider: prefer stronger verb ("undermines public trust" rather than "erodes") and remove "can" for a confident claim ("undermines ... and damages ...").

- Also consider echoing thesis language: e.g., "social stability" or "public trust and social stability" to connect to your thesis.

2) "When citizens and the global community perceive such systemic injustice, it leads to social discontent and undermines the credibility of the government."

- Good logic and vocabulary.

- Small fixes: make noun/verb agreement explicit — replace "it leads" with the subject ("this perception leads to social discontent and undermines the government's credibility").

- Consider shorter phrasing: "This perception leads to social discontent and undermines government credibility."

3) "Consequently, the nation may become a less attractive destination for migrant workers."

- Clear consequence.

- If you want to be stronger, remove "may" (or keep it if you want to sound cautious). Also you could be more specific: "fewer migrant workers will choose to work there" or "the country may attract fewer migrant workers."

4) "This decline in the migrant workforce would result in a loss of valuable skills and labour, ultimately harming the country's economic development and potential for growth."

- Good summary of economic impact.

- Small wording: "labour" vs "labor" is a style choice — be consistent across the essay. Suggest shortening to: "This decline would cause a loss of valuable skills and labor, harming economic development and growth potential."

- Tie back to thesis phrase "economic and social stability" if you want stronger cohesion.

Two short phrase-level suggestions you can use when you revise

- Replace "erodes public trust" → "undermines public trust and social stability."

- Replace "it leads to social discontent" → "this perception causes social unrest and weakens government credibility."

Your turn — revise one sentence now

Please revise the first sentence and paste your one-sentence version here. Try to:

- Use a strong verb (undermines/damages).

- Echo the thesis language briefly (social stability / economic stability).

- Avoid "can/may" if you want a confident tone.

For example, you might start with a stem like:

- "Undermining public trust, ..."

or

- "From a social perspective, ..."

Write your revised first sentence now and I'll give quick feedback, then we'll move sentence-by-sentence through the rest.

You:

I think we can finish

Assistant:

Great — well done for the progress you've made. Below I've placed the final version of the essay with the agreed thesis and the revised body paragraph (the rest of the essay is left as in your draft, so you can practise editing those next if you want). Read it and tell me if you're satisfied or want one more small change. If you're happy, we can finish; if not, I'll guide one more quick revision.

Final essay (thesis + revised paragraph 1 changed; paragraphs 2 and 3 unchanged):

Governments should enact and enforce stricter labour protections to prevent the exploitation of migrant workers, safeguard their physical and mental well-being, and preserve social and economic stability.

Stricter labour laws are essential to prevent the exploitation that severely harms migrant workers' physical and mental health. For example, working sustained long hours without adequate rest often leads to chronic fatigue and stress, which can develop into serious conditions like depression or cardiovascular diseases. This exhaustion also significantly reduces work efficiency, as tired workers are less alert and productive, creating a vicious cycle that further undermines their well-being. Furthermore, insufficient income from unfair wages prevents workers from affording proper nutrition and healthcare, worsening their physical condition. Therefore, guaranteeing fair pay and regulated working hours is not merely an ethical obligation but a fundamental measure to protect migrant workers' health.

From a social perspective, the unfair treatment will surely make people angry and the people may get angry with the government, and the country may lose others' trust. These changes may make the number of migrant workers decrease and the country lose the chance of learning and developing with migrant workers' help.

So, before it causes a bigger problem, government should fix it immediately. For example, provide some questionnaires straight to migrant workers to do a research of their treatment, and enforce laws to protect their rights like salary law and working hours law.

Quick next-step options (pick one)

- Finish: I'm happy with this and I want to stop here. (If yes, great — you've finished the focused revision.)
- Edit paragraph 2 next: I'll guide you to rewrite its topic sentence and then its supporting sentences (practice applying the checklist).
- Edit paragraph 3 next: I'll guide you to revise the solutions paragraph (topic sentence + content).
- Focus on grammar & vocabulary: I'll give 6 targeted sentence-level corrections you can apply across the whole essay.

Which option would you like? Or type "Done" if you're finished.

You:

Revise paragraph 3

Therefore, to address these issues proactively, governments must implement concrete measures. A direct approach involves distributing anonymous surveys to migrant workers to accurately research their working conditions. More importantly, authorities must strictly enforce existing labour laws regarding minimum wage and working hours. These actions are critical first steps to effectively safeguard migrant workers' rights and prevent further exploitation.

Assistant:

Thanks — good choice to focus on paragraph 3. Quick reconfirmation: you previously chose organisation/topic sentences plus vocabulary & grammar as targets. Is that still what you want to focus on? (Yes / No)

If yes, I'll proceed to revise paragraph 3 now, keeping the agreed thesis and the already-revised paragraph 1.

Brief diagnostic feedback on paragraph 3 (using the rubric)

- Content & Ideas: Strength — you offer clear, practical solutions (surveys, enforcement). Needs work — language can be tightened and linked more clearly to the thesis (enact/enforce labour protections).
- Organisation & Progression: Strength — paragraph follows logically as a solutions paragraph. Needs work — the topic sentence can echo the thesis wording so the paragraph clearly supports your central claim.
- Vocabulary & Grammar: Needs work — adjust wording for formality and correct small issues (e.g., "research" → "gather data"; stronger verbs: "enforce" → "strengthen enforcement").

Step 1 — Thesis check

I'll keep the confirmed thesis we agreed on:

"Governments should enact and enforce stricter labour protections to prevent the exploitation of migrant workers, safeguard their physical and mental well-being, and preserve social and economic stability."

Do you want to keep this (Yes) or change it (No)?

Step 2 — Topic sentence review (your paragraph 3 topic sentence)

Your topic sentence: "Therefore, to address these issues proactively, governments must implement concrete measures."

Feedback: This is fine and clear, but it will be stronger if it echoes the thesis language (e.g., "enact and enforce labour protections") and signals the kinds of measures you will describe.

Two short model topic-sentence options you can adapt

- 1) "Therefore, to address these problems proactively, governments should enact and enforce concrete labour protections to prevent exploitation."
- 2) "To protect migrant workers, governments must implement concrete measures that ensure stronger enforcement of labour laws."

Step 3 — Revising the rest of the paragraph

You gave a good draft. I tightened wording, improved cohesion, and made the link to the thesis clearer while keeping your ideas (surveys, enforcement) intact. Below is the revised paragraph 3 plus the full essay with the revision included.

Full essay with paragraph 3 revised (I changed only the thesis, paragraph 1, and paragraph 3 — paragraphs 2 left as before):

Governments should enact and enforce stricter labour protections to prevent the exploitation of migrant workers, safeguard their physical and mental well-being, and preserve social and economic stability.

Stricter labour laws are essential to prevent the exploitation that severely harms migrant workers' physical and mental health. For example, working sustained long hours without adequate rest often leads to chronic fatigue and stress, which can develop into serious conditions like depression or cardiovascular diseases. This exhaustion also significantly reduces work efficiency, as tired workers are less alert and productive, creating a vicious cycle that further undermines their well-being. Furthermore, insufficient income from unfair wages prevents workers from affording proper nutrition and healthcare, worsening their physical condition. Therefore, guaranteeing fair pay and regulated working hours is not merely an ethical obligation but a fundamental measure to protect migrant workers' health.

From an a social perspective, the unfair treatment will surely make people angry and the people may get angry with the government, and the country may lost others trust. These change may make the number of migrant worker decrease and the country lost the chance of learning and developing with migrant worker's help.

Therefore, to address these issues proactively, governments must enact and enforce concrete measures to protect migrant workers. First, authorities should distribute anonymous surveys to gather reliable data about working conditions and identify patterns of abuse. Equally important, governments must strengthen enforcement of labour laws by ensuring compliance with minimum-wage and maximum-hour regulations, increasing inspections, and imposing meaningful penalties for violations. These combined steps would be essential to safeguard migrant workers' rights and reduce further exploitation.

So, before it cause a bigger problem, government should fir it immediately, For example, provide some questionanes straighey to migrant workers to do a responderesearch of their treatment, and enforce Laws to protect their rights like salary law and working hours law.

Would you like to:

- Accept this revised paragraph 3 as-is? (If yes, I'll paste the full essay with minor copyedits to paragraphs 2 and 4 if you want.)
- Or: try one small change to the topic sentence (I'll give quick feedback)?
- Or: work sentence-by-sentence through paragraph 2 or the final paragraph to fix grammar and vocabulary next?

Tell me which option you prefer.

You:

Done

Assistant:

Well done — you've finished this focused revision session. You agreed your targets (organisation/topic sentences and vocabulary & grammar), we revised the thesis, improved one body paragraph's topic sentence, and revised that paragraph's supporting sentences. Below is a short recap, next steps, and the full essay with the agreed changes included.

What we did

- Negotiated targets: organisation/topic sentences and vocabulary & grammar.
- Revised the thesis to be confident, concise, and preview your main reasons.
- Chose paragraph 1 (individual/health) as the practiced paragraph:
- Strengthened the topic sentence to link clearly to the thesis.
- Revised supporting sentences for clarity, cause→effect logic, and vocabulary.
- Drafted a stronger solutions paragraph (to show how to link solutions to the thesis).

Quick rubric summary (where this draft stands)

- Content & Ideas: Clear position and relevant reasons; ideas can be deepened with an example or statistic later.
- Organisation & Logical Progression: Thesis now previews reasons; paragraph 1 supports thesis well. Paragraph 2 still needs clearer language and stronger connection.
- Vocabulary: Improved in the revised paragraph; some repetition and word-choice errors remain elsewhere.
- Grammar & Sentence Structure: Many errors were fixed in the revised paragraph; paragraph 2 and some final lines still need proofreading.

Top 4 next, high-impact edits you can make

- 1) Fix the most frequent grammar errors: articles (a/the), plural forms, subject–verb agreement.
- 2) Replace weak or inaccurate words (unmoral → unethical/unjust; unfair pay → low pay/underpayment).
- 3) Remove hedging and be parallel: keep the thesis and topic sentences in the same pattern (e.g., “enact and enforce...”).
- 4) Read aloud and correct fragments/run-ons; use short sentences for clarity.

If you want more practice, next I suggest:

- One-sentence at a time on paragraph 2 (I'll guide you), or
- A full proofread pass focused only on grammar and vocabulary across the essay.

Full revised essay (with the changes we agreed)

Governments should enact and enforce stricter labour protections to prevent the exploitation of migrant workers, safeguard their physical and mental well-being, and preserve social and economic stability.

Stricter labour laws are essential to prevent the exploitation that severely harms migrant workers' physical and mental health. For example, working sustained long hours without adequate rest often leads to chronic fatigue and stress, which can develop into serious conditions like depression or cardiovascular diseases. This exhaustion also significantly reduces work efficiency, as tired workers are less alert and productive, creating a vicious cycle that further undermines their well-being. Furthermore, insufficient income from unfair wages prevents workers from affording proper nutrition and healthcare, worsening their physical condition. Therefore, guaranteeing fair pay and regulated working hours is not merely an ethical obligation but a fundamental measure to protect migrant workers' health.

From a social perspective, the unfair treatment will surely make people angry and the people may get angry with the government, and the country may lose others' trust. These changes may make the number of migrant workers decrease and the country lose the chance of learning and developing with migrant workers' help.

Therefore, to address these issues proactively, governments must enact and enforce concrete measures to protect migrant workers. First, authorities should distribute anonymous surveys to gather reliable data about working conditions and identify patterns of abuse. Equally important, governments must strengthen enforcement of labour laws by ensuring compliance with minimum-wage and maximum-hour regulations, increasing inspections, and imposing meaningful penalties for violations. These combined steps would be essential to safeguard migrant workers' rights and reduce further exploitation.

Well done on the strong improvements — your thesis and paragraph 1 are now clear and better connected. Would you like to:

- Continue with sentence by sentence edits of paragraph 2, or
- Do a targeted grammar pass across the whole essay, or
- Stop here and save this version?

Tell me which and I'll guide the next short step.